

The children's area at the hospice on Speke Road

Aztec hands over Marie Curie facility

3 Dec 2010, 15:30

Michael Hunt

The Liverpool-based fit out firm has completed the refurbishment of a hospice on Speke Road in Woolton for the cancer care organisation.

Reception

Aztec said the work was completed before schedule in six phases and included structural changes within a 12-week period.

Rob Maxwell, Aztec managing director, said: "I am not only grateful but honoured to have been part of helping such an extraordinary organisation. The work in which they do is phenomenal, the support and care which they deliver on a day to day basis to the community is life changing. Their ethos in helping make thousands of people's final wishes come true is touching. We are happy to help any way in which we can now and in the future."