EXPERTISE IN CASES OF SERIOUS AND FATAL INJURY

A serious injury or bereavement can be a life changing event.

If you are injured or bereaved, you require the highest standards of legal representation to help you try to come to terms with what has happened and secure the highest possible quality of life.

Fentons has a specialist team that understands this and is dedicated to pursuing compensation claims on behalf of victims who suffer life-changing injuries in road collisions and the families of those who are killed in fatal accidents. The team includes leading national experts with many years' experience of handling complex cases.

One of the largest and most experienced departments in the UK, the experts at Fentons help guide victims and families through the complex process of claiming compensation following a devastating road traffic collision.

We work closely with national special interest groups and charitable organisations to ensure that the latest guidelines are always considered when handling complex cases involving death and serious injury. Appropriate support, counselling and advice on financial matters is sought and long-term programmes of rehabilitation and future medical care considered at the earliest opportunity.

Our experts regularly provide training on legal issues for a number of the country's police forces and medical experts.

Our team of specialists has earned an unrivalled reputation for providing a caring and empathetic service which treats you as an individual and offers all the help, advice and support you will need.

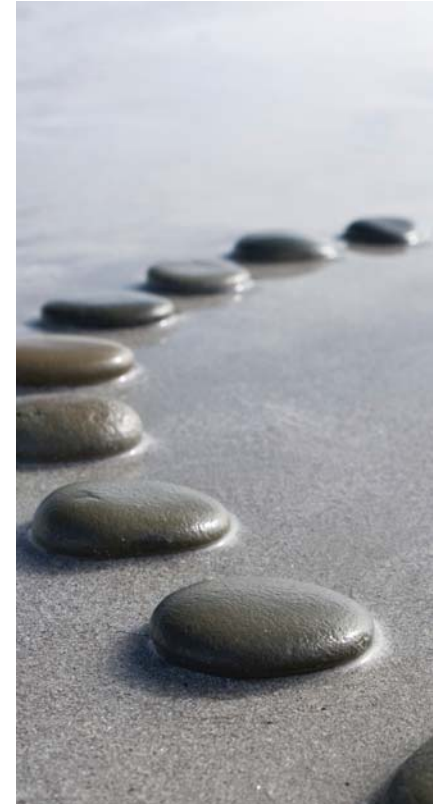

WHO CAN MAKE A CLAIM?

Every year, collisions on UK roads result in over 40,000 serious injuries and thousands of fatalities. Significant damages can be recovered on behalf of severely injured victims and the families of those who have been tragically killed in road collisions.

Fentons has a number of specialists with extensive experience in successfully pursuing compensation claims for:

- Families whose loved ones have been killed in a collision
- Drivers or passengers who sustain brain and spinal injuries or serious orthopaedic injuries
- Children severely injured in road collisions
- Passengers who sustain injury on public transport
- Motorcyclists, cyclists or pedestrians who suffer serious injury

An individual's circumstances and needs are unique in every case. Our dedicated team works with experienced national experts to ensure that you receive the very best advice, maximising your claim.

Our specialist team is dedicated to pursuing claims on behalf of victims who suffer life changing injuries and the families of those who are killed in fatal road collisions.

THE LOSS OF A LOVED ONE

The experts at Fentons have many years' experience helping families in situations where a loved one has died as a result of a road collision.

The process of claiming compensation at this most difficult time can be complex, time-consuming and understandably distressing. The specialists in our serious and fatal injury team will use all of their skill, knowledge and professionalism to ensure your claim is dealt with as quickly, simply and problem-free as possible.

Our team is experienced in pursuing compensation claims following fatal road collisions on behalf of:

- A husband or wife, or former husband or wife of the deceased
- A civil partner or former civil partner of the deceased
- A person who was living with the deceased as husband or wife for at least two years prior to the death
- A parent or other dependant of the deceased
- A person who was treated by the deceased as his or her parent
- A child or other dependant of the deceased

LEGAL COSTS

Our specialists offer a free, no obligation initial consultation where we will discuss the circumstances of your case with you. We will tell you if we believe you could pursue a claim and clearly explain your options to you, enabling you to make an informed choice that best suits you and your needs.

Most clients choose our No Win No Fee scheme because it provides a risk-free way to pursue compensation. If your claim is successful, you will receive 100 per cent of the damages and the defendant's insurance company will pay our costs.

Some clients might already have cover to pay for the case, although they may not be aware of it. Many household and car insurance policies actually provide cover to pay for a case such as this, while members of trade unions might also have a similar funding policy.

Our team of experts will closely examine your existing policies and advise you on the best way to fund the claim, helping you make the right choice and ensuring you have complete peace of mind.

We will clearly explain your options to you, enabling you to make an informed choice that best suits you and your needs.
